NO NEWS WILL BE GOOD NEWS

There has been no secret about the difficulty of finding out what's happening in Spain. Correspondents describing the conflict for newspaper readers in the United States have been up against every complication known to the trade, with extra doses of censorship.

Lately, their troubles evidently have multiplied. It has been possible to read at any given moment since the fall of Barcelona that the war was over, or that it was not over. The victors were, or were not, in position to dictate terms. The vanquished were, or were not, going to fight till the last man was dead.

The net effect of so much dissimilar information is bound to be uncomfortable. There seems only one safe thing to do: assume a war is going on until Spain drops entirely out of the news, which will be a dependable sign that Spaniards, egged on by various European cohorts, have quit killing one another.

ALL COUNTIES HEARD FROM

When two Ohioans start to talk politics these days, one says to the other, "Well, I see Bricker's still bouncing the boys and girls off the payroll."

The other one replies, "Yep, but just wait. Sooner or later there'll be just as many of 'em as ever, only they'll be good Republicans instead of Democrats."

Gov. Bricker knows what's being said. "It isn't easy to cut men off the payroll," he told a Cleveland audience last Thursday night. "We have received protests from all over the state. We need the intervention of the business interests, the people who own their homes, and people who pay the bill, to support a program of economy."

This probably is the briefest, most succinct and most convincing lecture on economy which has been delivered anywhere in the United States this year, or any other year. It explains in a nutshell what happens to economy programs—what will happen to the economy program in Ohio, in all probability, unless the people who believe in it manage to make a louder noise than the ones who don't.

"SO MANY THINGS TO DO"

It is good for mankind to be reminded, because sometimes it forgets, that the main stream of civilization is not controlled exclusively by unscrupulous wielders of temporal power.

The death of Pope Pius XI is such a reminder. "We still have so many things to do," were the Pope's last words as he lay on his death bed. "We," not they.

They can and on occasion have reviled the church and the things for which religionists strive. But in one way or another they have passed into oblivion while religion remained.

They have opposed the ideal and the practice of peace. They have encouraged men to kill one another over causes which subsequently were to become so indistinct no one could understand them.

They have turned away from tolerance and refused mercy. They have set up themselves as gods and commanded men to worship them. Throughout time they have been found in opposition to man's endless struggle to achieve a higher destiny than an animal trained to talk.

Temporal power can be used wisely, and frequently is—fortunately. It can be used to encourage men to strive for a higher destiny. Perhaps during the reign of Pope Pius it could have been used so that he, voicing the thought of all enlightened men aspiring to have a hand in the creation of a world at peace, would not have ended his life with the thought of leaving so many things undone.

It is that thought which, passed from one generation to another, has sustained men in their hope for a better world for all men. While civilization totters once more on the verge of crisis, it may shed needed light on the dilemma into which abuse of power has thrust it.

DRIFTING ITSELF OUT

Current strategy in official discussion of foreign policy, following the flareup in Washington, calls for letting the issue drift itself out.

The theory is that when tempers cool off the whole thing will be easier to handle, which seems sound enough. In the meantime it is possible to weigh the issue calmly.

The main points of the issue are these:

1. While there is in actual fact, no such thing as complete isolation, which would require popular neutrality, there can be such a thing as isolation from war based on official neutrality. It is this kind of isolation which most Americans have in mind when they view apprehensively the possibility of the United States becoming entangled in European affairs through secret understandings.

2. Even though most Americans lack sympathy for foreign governments which are totalitarian in nature and freely profess sympathy for the democratic states, they do not seem to feel it is proper for their government officially to manifest this popular feeling. They fear the possible consequences of a foreign policy determined by popular opinion.

3. The perennial struggle between the chief executive and the senate over the power of determination in matters of foreign policy has been intensified by the character of President Roosevelt. The President is at odds with many members of the senate, and has shown no disposition to play a moderate role either in foreign or domestic policy. The senate, as a whole, is unwilling to let Mr. Roosevelt have a free rein in determining this government's official attitude in foreign affairs.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, February 14

RATHER lively conditions are to be expected on the basis of this day's astral operations. There may be sudden developments calling for changed plans or objectives, with writings, documents or business contracts involved. These require discretion and wise adaptation; be wary of strangers or strange situations. With precaution there may be many advantages and some definite progress through new opportunities or speculation.

Those whose birthday it is will find that much depends upon their own astute and vigilant management of their affairs during the year, in which sudden and unusual opportunities may arise for attaining high objectives. Change in plans and environs may be advantageous, but be prudent with strangers and careful with all papers. Not too hazardous speculative enterprises should thrive.

A child born on this day may be efficient, ambitious and adventurous, and should carve a successful career for itself, possibly through unusual and progressive ideas or by speculative enterprises.

HULL WARNS U. S. OF ATTACK POSSIBILITY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—An assertion by Secretary Hull that America would meet any foreign challenge with "determined defense and resistance" served today as a prelude to the first congressional debate over the $552,000,000 armament program.

Hull told a radio audience last night that as long as there was any possibility of attack it was "the sacred duty of any government worthy of the name to maintain adequate defensive forces."

The definition of "adequate forces" will become an issue when the house takes up tomorrow a bill to authorize $300,000,000 for new army planes, $23,000,000 for Panama canal defense, and $32,500,000 for civilian pilot training.

Although opponents admittedly held little hope of making important changes in the measure, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the Republican floor leader, advocated spreading the army's purchase of 3,000 new planes over three years instead of two.

Lengthening the program, he said, would prevent possible overstimulation of aircraft production. Furthermore, he declared, there is no immediate threat of war in which the United States might become involved.

Another phase of the controversy over national defense and foreign policies came before the senate military committee this morning.

It faced the problem of deciding whether to make public an official, but edited, record of its inquiry into the proposed sale of American-made warplanes to France.

Foreign transactions brought on Senator Nye R-N-D a charge last night that President Roosevelt's foreign policy was "so dangerous as to convince many that a war now in Europe would guarantee our participation in it."

In a radio debate with Senator Lee (D-Okla.), Nye pleaded for a "mind-our-own-business" foreign policy "at least until that time when certain conditions should prevail."

He advocated imposition of "strict embargoes against a trade boom based on war," outlawing of war profits for individuals, and a constitutional provision for a popular referendum before declaration of war.

Lee, who like Nye, is a member of the senate military committee, supported Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy, asserting that the President had steered "a straight course toward peace" through one crisis after another.

Spain: To Be Used to Hem in France?

If Spain now becomes fascist under General Franco, it, too, will have to be designated as black on the map. Thus democratic France and its African colonies would be hemmed in by fascist nations. The only support would be from England.

Emotional Causes Mostly Responsible For Fatigue

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I wonder if anybody can tell anybody else how to have energy to burn, and especially I wonder if anybody can teach anybody else to direct their superabundant energy into useful channels.

A book called "Two Lifetimes in One," by Marie Benyon Ray (Published by Bobbs-Merrill Co.) has for a sub-title, "How Never to be Tired: How to Have Energy to Burn." It takes up this problem of fatigue which is truly tragic for some of your friends.

There are two ways of looking at chronic fatigue. Another name for it, by the way, is "born tired." There is mother's attitude—the sympathetic approach—which is that the poor thing has something the matter that causes this tired feeling. And there is father's attitude, which puts it down as pure laziness, and regards it as mostly spiritual in origin.

Strangely, modern medical science is more likely to incline to father's hard-boiled attitude than to mother's apparently common-sense remarks. Fatigue does spring from obscure organic changes sometimes, but mostly the causes are in the emotional life.

Never Saw Cure
"I never saw a chronic case of fatigue cured by physical means," says Dr. Brill, a well-known New York consultant. "I have seen some temporary good come of electric shocks and treatments, of rest and baths, of message and medicine, but never a permanent cure."

It should be remembered, though, that such a man is likely to see the severe cases. The milder cases, or just temporary, unexplained fatigue, are liable to respond to something less drastic than a psychological course of treatment.

In the field of diet, for instance, fatigue may come from stuffing too much food into yourself. "Never eat as much as you want," one doctor put it. "I believe that a man can eat practically anything he wants, in practically any combination, if only he will eat only half what he wants."

Irving Fisher's experience with a group of Yale students, whom he put on a diet which cut down by one-fifth the total number of calories they were accustomed to ingest, gave good results in increased physical endurance. One man who could raise a pair of dumbbells only 185 times at the beginning of the experiment could raise them 500 times at the end of six months.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Another who, at the start, could rise on his toes 300 times, could finally do it 3000 times. He had increased his endurance ten times.

At first convinced that they were slowly dying of starvation, there was a sudden change in their mental attitude as soon as they found the diet was really doing them good. Listlessness disappeared and a surge of energy went through them so that it is said they had to be restrained from studying.

But fatigue quite as often comes from undernourishment, and these advice about restraint in eating must be applied as common sense dictates. Louis XI, the emaciated king of France, faced a mob and said to the buxom lady who led them, "Which of us, madame, looks as though he needed bread most?"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 W. 45th st., New York City. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

PLAYLOT PLANNING

Editor, The News:

Your "Recreation Fields" editorial in Feb. 9th News was timely and wise. A tax levy to provide funds for park and recreation purposes, reasonably distributed in various parts of the city to fill location needs, systematically handled by a park or planning board, appears to be the proper way.

Playgrounds need not be expensive. Even figuring $350 spent on the skating pond, it provided cheap amusement for several hundred Salemites. Ball diamonds and tennis courts are also inexpensive compared to results. Vacant lots handy to homes, equipped with swings, sand boxes, and various equipment for smaller children, are all inexpensive and keep children off streets.

Let older boys feel that the west end of city field is theirs for a place to rough it, as the most of us did as kids. The boys, for years, have had a natural swimming hole there when not too dry. And they were as healthy as those who now use $50,000 pools, which would be fine if Salem can finance it.

So far as lack of city funds for Memorial bldg. and park is concerned, it is no trouble for officials to dig up from $5,000 to $25,000 for some machinery and things of far less value than decent recreation facilities.

Kids are only kids once; why not make life happy for them, and aid society at same time. I feel this new playlot group will do a good job, as it is along the line of what I suggested to Mayor Harhoff before he took office. A Permanent Planning Commission, picked by every group in the city, to study all city needs and have their own committee to present their findings to the proper authorities for action.

This form of commission would be strictly non-partisan, not appointed by any mayor. I feel well pleased with the members of this committee that I know personally, and wish them success.

SYNOPSIS

The grave issue of world war or peace was in the offing (though none seemed to realize it) when, one Fergus, was mysteriously assaulted en route to Sir Ronald Matresser, who had just returned to his lordly county estate after another of his long and mysterious journeys. His mother, Countess Matilda; his sister, Lady Ann; and her new companion, Mademoiselle Elisabeth Stamler, a beautiful Austrian, well-known handsome young Matresser whom he recalled seeing flected. "I seem to know the name. Has he estates in Holland?" "He told me he had several thousand acres of shooting there," Matresser replied. They made their way down towards the woods. Matresser during their progress to the stands, caught up with his foreign guest. "My dear fellow," he exclaimed, "you have completely astonished our local sportsmen. I never saw anyone shoot with such precision in my life."

Van Westheene bowed gravely. "It is good sport, that," he declared. "I seem to know the name. Has he estates in Holland?" "He told me he had several thousand acres of shooting there," Matresser replied. They made their way down towards the woods. Matresser during their progress to the stands, caught up with his foreign guest. "My dear fellow," he exclaimed, "you have completely astonished our local sportsmen. I never saw anyone shoot with such precision in my life."

get it at luncheon time." "There is nothing else I can do, sir?" "Nothing except keep this quiet," Matresser insisted earnestly. "Don't let a soul know what has happened." "I understand sir perfectly," Matresser turned his head. His loader stepped forward. "You will excuse me your lordship," he said. "Humphreys' whistle went two minutes ago. The birds are coming over the knoll. The young ladies are beckoning to you." Matresser snatched up one of his guns and hurried off. Elisabeth Stamler greeted him with a curious look of apprehension in her eyes. "Why were you talking to that little man for so long while all these pheasants were getting away?" she asked. Matresser exercised the privilege of a man with a gun. He went on shooting and remained silent.

At dinner that evening the Countess of Matresser made what was almost an official announcement. She had been talking for some time of her son to the Earl of Bemrose, who was seated on her right. "Ronald has practically given me his word," she confided, "that his wanderings are over. He is going to settle down and do his duty to his neighbors. We have been without a man here long enough."

"It will be good news for the County of course," he admitted, "and as you know the Lord Lieutenantcy is his for the asking. On the other hand, I cannot help wondering sometimes whether he will be quite content."

"I might share that fear," she confessed, "if only there had been more point about Ronnie's travels. If he had been an explorer for instance, or a climber had discovered new countries or sailed in strange seas and written about these places, then I could have sympathized with him, but he wanders off without any fixed intentions. He shoots a great deal of course but a healthy man's appetite for that sort of thing must decline before middle age. He seems to have the real wanderlust. Do you know that when he goes away we can only correspond with him through an office in London? They forward our letters to him and he writes to us care of them. He makes no plans. There is no system whatever about his travels."

Bemrose twirled his gray moustache. "I sometimes wonder whether you quite do your son justice, Lady Matresser," he said. "Don't you think it possible that he may be doing a little work we none of us know anything about?" "Do you really believe that?" she asked curiously. "Have you ever heard anything that would lead you to think so?"

"Well, I would not go so far as that," was the cautious admission. "But I do know that the Foreign Office had sent for him several times before he went abroad and I have heard it said by people who ought to know that if only he would work on more rigid lines he would be invaluable to the government."

"First time I have ever heard such a thing hinted at," Lady Matresser confessed frankly. (To Be Continued)

Symbolic of Pontiff's Death

Half-Open Vatican Door Symbolizes Pope's Death

Swiss guards stand stiffly at attention outside the main door of the Vatican, which stands half-open to symbolize passing of Pope Pius XI, who succumbed to heart attack only two days before the 17th anniversary of his coronation. Photo telephoned to London and radioed to New York.

Members Of Travelers Club To Hear Talk By Educator

Travelers club members will hear Mrs. Sara Jane Peterson of Youngstown, one of the outstanding speakers on their program this year, at a meeting at the library assembly room Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Peterson, retired Rayen school teacher in Youngstown, is now serving as a member of the city board of education. She is one of the busiest women in her city, in spite of being officially "retired."

Mrs. Peterson graduated from Rayen high school in 1871, youngest of her class, and taught 54 years in Youngstown schools, most of the time at Rayen building.

At one time she was teacher of all mathematics at the Rayen building, but during the later years, her time was spent in teaching algebra. She never went to college, but supplemented her early training with the equivalent of a dozen college courses.

A remarkable woman, in the scope and wide variety of her activities and interests, Mrs. Peterson is well known for her lectures and book reviews, one of which she will present at the meeting Tuesday.

Tea will be served following the program by Mrs. Clyde McKee and her committee.

Peace Sisterhood Meets Wednesday

Peace sisterhood No. 129, Dames of Malta, will hold its regular meeting at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the K. of P. hall instead of Wednesday evening, the usual time.

The group will go to East Palestine Wednesday evening to attend the 19th anniversary celebration of the sisterhood there.

Members will meet at 6 p. m. at the K. of P. hall to go to East Palestine. Reservations should be made by Tuesday with Mrs. Clyde Smith, phone 669-W, or Mrs. Everett Dean, 949-J.

The sisterhood entertained at a card party Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Chris Doyle on Jennings ave. with Mrs. Paul Patterson and Mrs. Louis Brown as associate hostesses.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Leo Sanders and Mrs. Raymond Collins, high; Mr. Collins and Mrs. Clyde Beeler, low. Eight tables of "500" were in play.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Shrumm and son and daughter of Beaver Falls, Pa.

The next card party will be given Feb. 25 at the home of Mrs. Brown, 266 Jennings ave.

Legion, Auxiliary Enjoy Party

An enjoyable program marked the American Legion and auxiliary party Saturday night in the Legion home.

A feature was a box lunch auction conducted by J. H. Sinclair. Al J. Freed's "Swingcreators" played for the dancing which followed.

The event was arranged by a Legion committee composed of L. H. French, Claude Miller and Eddie Howell.

Party Planned By St. Paul's Club

Arrangements have been completed by committees of St. Paul's Catholic club for the Valentine day party to be given Tuesday evening in the Elks home. A large attendance is expected.

Art White's orchestra will provide the music. The dance will be open to friends of members.

Signal Couple Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Dickey of Signal, celebrating their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, held open house following a family dinner at their home.

Mr. Jefferson, 81, who has been postmaster at Signal for 33 years, is believed to be the oldest postmaster in the state.

Husbands Will Be Supper Guests

The Martha Lang Missionary circle will have members husbands as guests at a coverdish supper at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday in the church.

An interesting program has been arranged for the evening. All members of the class and their husbands are invited to attend.

Past Noble Grands Plan Dinner

A coverdish dinner for members and their families will be given at the Odd Fellows hall Wednesday evening by the Past Noble Grand association of the Rebekah lodge.

The regular meeting and program will follow. Response to roll call will be "Historical Spots in Ohio I Have Visited."

D. of A. Will Have Entertainment

A special entertainment, lunch and a valentine exchange will be enjoyed at a meeting of the Plymouth council No. 183, Daughters of America, in the hall at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Every member is urged to attend. The entertainment will be held during the social hour, following the regular business session.

35th Anniversary

Open house was held Sunday at the Sebring home of Mr. and Mrs. William McBride, former Salem residents, in celebration of their 35th wedding anniversary.

The couple have lived in Sebring since leaving Salem about 20 years ago.

P. R. McTigue of Cleveland, Michael McTigue and son, Lionel, of Duluth, Minn., Mrs. M. I. McTigue, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Keyser and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keyser of Leetonia were guests yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stewart, North Broadway.

Michael McTigue and son have left for their home after several weeks visit with relatives here and in the vicinity.

James Bruce of Sharp ave. and Ted Bowling of Lisbon left last week for a trip to Texas.

Mrs. Harry Ball of West Pershing st., is recovering at her home from a fractured wrist suffered in a fall recently.

W. Virginia Fights Ohio Coal Campaign

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 13.—The Ohio legislature can be virtually sure of retaliation by West Virginia if it passes a measure to require the use of Ohio coal exclusively in state institutions.

West Virginia legislature was in position for quick passage of a retaliatory measure aimed principally at Ohio, which would forbid the use of any materials on public works which were purchased from a state barring the use of non-domestic materials.

The West Virginia bill, introduced by House Speaker Kay in-mas, has been passed by the house and now is in the senate judiciary committee.

It was explained on the floor of the house that the bill would be held from final action in the senate until the Ohio legislature disposes of its bill.

Grange Program

Motion pictures of interesting scenic places in the United States and of a new type glass-making industry will be shown at the meeting of Perry grange Wednesday night. Visitors will be welcome to attend the meeting.

FORMER RULER IS REALTY MAN

Ex-King of Afghanistan Lives In Rome and Owns Buildings

ROME — Once king of Afghanistan, Amanullah in his exile has turned to the real estate for a livelihood.

Afghanistan's first king, and its most famous political refugee when a revolution caused him to flee to Rome in 1929, he has since become this city's most distinguished realtor.

Recently he returned to business, after a short stay in Istanbul where he attended the funeral of his close friend, the late Kemal Ataturk, dictator of Turkey. Amanullah regards the future of his profession somewhat pessimistically.

Owns Office Buildings

The ex-king is of the opinion that the depression has shaken the real estate line severely and that it will be some time yet before it is back to the '29 level. At present he owns and receives income from several downtown office buildings. His first investment 10 years ago was the purchase of a villa worth $200,000 in which he and his family have since lived.

In recent years the royal exile has devoted the major part of his time to sports. A fond follower of horse racing he is a familiar figure at Villa Giori, Rome's swank racetrack.

The ex-sovereign recalls his native Afghanistan, where he used to hunt gazelle and bring down as many as 600 ducks in a single day's shooting, with certain wistfulness.

As Italy has no gazelle and prohibits duck hunting on the scale formerly indulged in by the royal refugee, he highly prizes his occasional visits from King Victor Emmanuel for a day's outing in the royal hunting preserves.

Likes Italy's Roads

Amanullah's highest praise for Fascism is for the fine roads it has given Italy. A passionate automobilist, the former Afghanist king has driven his car over most of the nation's roads and has a road map nailing in the royal household with the roads he has traversed marked on it.

Amanullah was forced to leave Afghanistan shortly after a revolutionary uprising broke out in 1928. In 1929 he renounced the rights to the throne to his brother, Inayat Oullah Khan embarked for Marseilles and from there came to Rome.

Happily reconciled to his new life, Amanullah harbors no desire to return to his native land. However, "the future," he says, "is in the hands of Allah."

Nancy Kelly, Tyrone Power and Henry Fonda in a scene from "Jesse James" showing at the State tonight and Tuesday.

Culminating two years of intensive research and six months of actual filming, the spectacular and dramatic production, "Jesse James", showing tonight and Tuesday at the State, tells the history of the nation's most famous outlaw and the turbulent event that gave him to the world.

All Technicolor

The picture is all in technicolor showing to its full extent, the great beauty of the country in which the outlaw lived and died.

In this epic story of a lawless era we are given a true and stirring picture of the most colorful outlaw that ever lived. For in "Jesse James" the almost legendary figure is portrayed by Tyrone Power exactly as he was—neither all good nor all bad, a brave and tender husband to the girl who married him, a victim of injustice to the simple folk who knew him and, to the people who hated him, an outlaw and a killer.

Rarely has Hollywood offered a more complete study of the life of a man than it has in "Jesse James".

Every important incident in the outlaw's life is skillfully treated. How he came to begin his nefarious life, his marriage to the lovely Zerelda Mimms, his subsequent separation due to the increased activities of his band and his assassination by one of its members, is graphically revealed.

Fine Performance

Tyrone Power, in the title role, gives what can only be described as one of the finest performances of the year. In the last analysis, it is he who makes the character of James such a sympathetic figure in the eyes of the audience. We can think of no actor who could have done it better, or even as well.

Henry Fonda is excellent as Frank James, brother of Jesse, and Nancy Kelly, as Jesse's wife Zee, tops every performance she has given to date. Randolph Scott is splendid in the role of Marshall Wright. Individually brilliant performances are given by every member of an exceptional supporting cast which features Henry Hull, Slim Summerville, J. Edward Bromberg, Brian Donlevy, John Carradine, Donald Meek, John Russell and Jane Darwell.

Believe Missing Man Was Drowned

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 13.—Sheriff Herbert Traubert said today Frank Carr, 29, Weirton, had disappeared from his home and that he believed the man had leaped to his death from the Steubenville bridge over the Ohio river.

Traubert said an overcoat, vest and hat identified as Carr's was found on the bridge.

He reported Carr had been separated from his wife for two months and had resigned from his job with the Weirton Steel company Saturday.

PROTEX PARES MOTOR EXPENSE

Salona Supply Company To Handle Widely Known Oil

Your motor will do a good job only when it is properly lubricated. All of its moving parts must be separated by a re-stant film of oil. For only when the bearings and connecting rods and the pistons and cylinder walls are separated by a tough, enduring film of oil do you get sufficient lubrication. Naturally, the tougher this film, the better your motor is lubricated.

Tough Film
Protex motor oil gives an unusually tough, resistant film that stands up under the severe beating of thousands of grueling miles. Because of the enduring, lasting qualities of this protective film, there is a minimum of wear, with lessened power leakage, and practically no friction. You benefit, for this reduced friction gives you more mileage, more power, greater speed, yet all this with less wear.

Protex removes that enemy of motor efficiency, carbon. So much carbon is removed you will find that your oil has turned black. This in no way affects the high lubricating qualities of the oil, and gives you a much better motor.

Years of Success
Thousands of motors throughout the northwest have been perfectly lubricated with Protex motor oil. Probably no other lubricating oil has been as completely satisfactory to its users in providing proper lubrication under extreme sub-zero and excessively high summer temperatures. Protex will do as fine a job for your motor and for your motoring expenses.

The Salona Supply, at its implement and hardware store on W. Pershing st. has just stocked this oil. The company made a careful investigation and feel it is offering the best motor oil money can buy at a considerable saving to the customer.

COMFORT FOR THE DRIVER

THE DEEP FRONT SEAT of the Mercury 8, the Ford Motor Company's new 95-horsepower car, is easily and quickly adjustable, so the driver may ride in comfort.

While this feature appeals especially to women, it also is popular with men. They find that an occasional slight change in the seat position is restful on long trips.

NEW TIRE AIDS SAFETY DRIVE

Seiberling Safety Tire Expected To Cut Accident Toll

A new contribution to safe driving has been announced by the Seiberling Rubber company in its new safety tire, according to the local Seiberling dealer, Don Smith of the Smith garage on Third at Vine ave.

"This new tire", Smith says, "has been acclaimed as America's safest tire because of its three new and revolutionary safety principles." The new Seiberling safety tire is expected to be a large factor in increasing the degree of highway safety. First reason for this is the tire's "saw-tooth" tread. Where the brakes are applied, a curve is being negotiated or the car begins to skid these "saw-tooth" grip the road from every angle. "A maximum of anti-skid protection is assured under all highway conditions," Smith says.

The patented Seiberling principle of heat-venting is also incorporated in the safety tire. Bullet-shaped vents in the shoulder of the tire permit dangerous internally generated heat to escape thus giving greater safety from heat failures and blowouts.

The Seiberling safety tire will ab-

CITES SAVING FOR MOTORIST

Trained Mechanics Give Careful Attention To Every Problem

Radiator and block cleaning is one of the many forms of service available to the motorist at the Harris garage, W. State st.

No garage takes more pride in its service department than does the Harris establishment and motorists throughout the district place utmost confidence in it.

Harris maintains a staff of highly trained experts and, in consequence, is able to guarantee every job that goes out of the shop.

The Harris service department is valuable for more than just its repair work. It is a good place to take your car for periodic inspections. The Harris mechanics will check your car, from front to rear, and advise you on whatever is needed, if anything. This saves expensive repair later on.

Needs Regular Attention

Servicing the cooling system, like any other service on the car, should be performed regularly. When a car is new, or just after the cooling system has been thoroughly cleaned and overhauled, all water passages in the engine and radiator are open, free from rust, and connections tight.

Oxygen, which is in all water, has a corrosive effect on iron and steel which is in the engine block and cylinder head. Oxygen comes from the air and as air is always being introduced into the cooling system through the overflow pipe, the formation of rust is a continuous process. Rust forms faster while the car is being driven than when it is standing still, first, because more air is drawn into the system when the car is running and, second, because all chemical action increases with heat. In the same manner the faster the car is driven the faster the rust is produced because of the increased amount of air that is being drawn into the system, and because the operating temperatures are higher.

Rust Gets Thick

As rust forms on the iron walls of the water passages it eventually gets so thick that it acts as a blanket to hold the heat, interfering with the cooling of the engine. When rust builds up in the small passages between the cylinders it takes away the proper circulation of water from these hot spots. Boiling then takes place in these local areas and the steam which is formed forces the water out through the overflow pipe and in time there is insufficient water in the cooling system. This results in overheating the entire cooling system.

The radiator core acts as a strainer for the loose rust and in time the water passages become clogged solid. The cooling capacity of radiators has been increased in the past few years, without increasing the overall size of the radiator, by increasing the number of water passages. Therefore, the passages must be smaller and thus form a finer strainer. Because of this they are more easily clogged.

EASY TO KEEP CLOTHING FRESH HERE'S A HOME FOR OLD TIRES

Paris Makes It Possible To Have Apparel For All Occasions

Once you become acquainted with the complete service that the Paris Cleaners can offer, you will find it comparatively easy to maintain a wardrobe to meet all occasions.

Clothes can be worn comfortably and with more pride when the wearer knows they are fresh and clean and kept so the Paris Cleaners way.

When the clothing or household materials are returned from the Paris, there is smarter finishing, with every touch of styling retained. Never is there the faintest trace of cleaning odor. L. C. Price, manager, says that once one has tried this service, he will never go back to old-fashioned methods.

Patrons have no reason for fears of the condition of their most expensive silks and rayons, their most delicately colored fabrics. Price operates delivery trucks to pick up and return clothing and materials for cleaning. After a trip to the Paris notice how fabrics come back with all their original freshness and charm.

No longer is it necessary to say "Nothing to wear." Paris service has removed this excuse with short-noice work. Nap is restored to polo coats, evening gowns or wraps are refreshed and cleaned, suits are given tailored pressing and perfect cleaning.

"Bring 'em In", Says Lee Butler; "We'll Treat 'em Right"

When somebody asked Alfred Sloan (President of General Motors) where is the best place for a worn tire, he said, "In the ash can". Lee Butler's answer would be: "Right here in the back of our shop."

"Butler says we'll give your old tires a home and allow you more for them than you can save by wearing them out. We'll retire them on a pension . . . to you."

Of course they aren't worth much . . . but who wants to risk life and loved ones on tires that are worth that little.

Swap your feeble old tires, in or new Kelly-Springfield with the: Armorrubber treads. Kelly toughness is due to the special Kelly process of mixing molecules of rubber and powdered carbon black (the toughest known abrasive resistant) to produce a tread that is virtually pliable armor-plate.

There are a lot of other reasons why Kelly-Springfield can take it, and if you are interested stop in at Lee Butler's at W. State and Jennings, and he will tell you all about it.

Manning Is Sued

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13.—Thomas E. Manning, world's series announcer for the National Broadcasting Co., was sued for divorce today on grounds of wilful absence. Mrs. Amalia E. Manning said Manning left her in 1928, four years after their marriage.

Marietta Holds an Important Position In Ohio Cage League

MARIETTA GETS CHANCE TO TOP WOOSTER QUINT

Pioneers Cast In Role of Giant-Killer In Ohio Conference Race

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—That big week for Buckeye basketball bugs has arrived, with Marietta's Pioneers cast in the giant-killer role in the ever-tightening Ohio conference race.

The charges of Coach "Duke" Hayes, third placers in the circuit scramble, can toss the present picture into the ash heap with a pair of not-unlikely victories Friday and Saturday.

Wooster's Scots, current leaders of the league race with 10 straight victories, invade Marietta Friday night. The next night the Mariettans invade Wittenberg's court at Springfield, where they'll try to repeat the 45-41 defeat they handed the Lutherans in their first conference tilt of the year.

Ohio university, leader of the Buckeye with four straight, can just about clinch the laurels in that loop if it beats Marshall Tuesday at Athens.

This week's slate calls for 39 games involving the Ohio college quintets, including one Big Ten tilt, two in the Buckeye, 13 in the Ohio conference, and 13 with out-of-State opponents, four on foreign hardwoods.

POMONA GRANGE PLANS MEETING

Mahoning County Group To Meet At Smith Hall Feb. 25

DAMASCUS, Feb. 13.—The meeting of Pomona Grange of Mahoning county was announced at a meeting of Garfield Grange Wednesday evening. Pomona will meet in Smith grange hall Feb. 25. A group of Garfield Grange members are planning to attend. A committee was appointed to oversee the installing of a new ceiling for the Garfield hall. The committee is composed of Olin Shoor, Paul Somerville and Ray Gist assisted by the Master, Roy Campbell.

Announcement was made that Ohio State Grange gatekeeper, H. R. Atwood, sustained a crushed hip and a broken arm near his home at Nelson. He is confined to the Ravenshaw hospital.

Mrs. Frank Kumpfer was reported improving and has returned to her home from the hospital.

A report was given by Mrs. J. B. Amstutz representative of a committee who called upon the public utilities commission of Ohio in Columbus last week. The call was in interest of the Stark Electric and Stark Transit Incorporated.

A petition was taken to Columbus from this committee in the interest of changing the bus route to include the Garfield territory.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Naylor are the other members of the committee. The committee was authorized to proceed further and use the hall for a public meeting if needed.

The program was: Song, "Smile, Smile, Smile"; by the grange; recitation, Charlene Morton; music, Ogden Brothers orchestra composed of Donald, Thomas and Paul Ogden and Arthur and Hilda Grimes of North Benton; recitation, Dolores Weisner; Legislative items, Mrs. H. H. Bently; vocal solo, Miss Hilda Grimes; reading, Betty Anderson.

Suggestions for grange programs; recitation, "Your Valentine"; Edna Mather; current events, Mrs. Roy Campbell; vocal solo, Miss Hilda Grimes; music, Ogden orchestra; stunt in charge of Paul Somerville in which Vernon Delzell won the prize. Surprise lunch was served by the Juvenile Grange members.

Memorial Service

A Frances E. Willard Memorial program was planned for the W. C. T. U. meeting, Thursday. The event was held with Mrs. Margaret Chambers.

The program was: Opening song, "Consecration"; group; devotionals, Mrs. G. L. Mounts; prayer, Mrs. Sarah Mather; roll call, sayings of Frances Willard.

Playlet, "Times Have Changed"; Mrs. Gilbert Warrington, Mrs. Margaret Chambers and Mrs. G. L. Mounts; article, "Frances E. Willard's Life Will Ever Inspire Mankind"; Mrs. Philena Santee; general discussion of the work; letters on "Peace," were read by Mrs. Gilbert Warrington.

Coverdine Dinner Planned

Plans for a coverdine dinner were made at a meeting of the Merry Mixers Thursday. The husbands will be guests.

The dinner will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Denny, Tuesday evening.

These plans were made at a regular meeting, Thursday afternoon with Mrs. C. F. Elyson, Mrs. Erba Maddox and Mrs. Allen Stanley had charge of the meeting and quilt blocks were pieced. Ten members were present. A lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Arlan Hoopes, March 9.

At Concord Church

Rev. E. H. Sturtevant gave a talk and showed stereoscopic views on "Heavenly America," at the Concord church Thursday evening.

Joseph Maddox and daughter, Carolyn of Cleveland called on Mrs. Erba Maddox, recently.

MAJOR LEAGUER?

ERIC TIPTON, DUKE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL ACE AND HERO OF THE LAST ROSE BOWL GAME. JACK COOMBS, DUKE BASE-BALL COACH IS GROOMING HIM FOR A FUTURE MAJOR LEAGUE OUTFIELD BERTH.

BOWLING NEWS

Ralph Gregg, manager of the Grate Recreation alleys, came within four pins of a perfect game to feature weekend bowling activity involving Salem teams.

Being with Tyson's West End Service against the Akron Olympic Bees at the Olympic alleys in the Rubber City Sunday, Gregg put together 11 consecutive strikes, but missed a perfect score when his 12th ball hit the No. 3 pin and left four pins standing. He finished with 257, the highest single game score ever rolled by a Salem bowler in match competition.

Gregg combined his 293 game with other games of 212 and 210 for a splendid 718 series.

Despite Gregg's fine score, Tyson's lost the match, 2993 to 2961. The Salem team rolled two games over 1000, hitting 1041 in the second game and 1035 in the third heat. A comparatively weak first game in which they rolled 835 cost Tyson's the victory.

The Salem Eagles men's team nosed out Steubenville Eagles, 2378 to 2375, at the Masonic temple alleys Saturday night while the Salem Eagles ladies lost to Steubenville ladies, 2094 to 2013.

Another Steubenville men's team conquered the Grate Recreation road team, 2312 to 2731, at the Grate lanes Saturday night.

The Grate Recreation ladies team fell before Alliance ladies, 2313 to 2109. Frances Grate of the Salem team was high for the match with 517.

In a special match at Columbian, the Glidden Paint ladies lost to the Columbian Stevens Barons, 2251 to 2270.

N. Waterford Wins

NEW WATERFORD, Feb. 13.—With Welsh and Estery pacing the scoring New Waterford walloped Newell, W. Va., 49 to 19, here Saturday night.

Coach Gil Weikart's lads led throughout most of the game after moving to the front in the second period. Welsh tallied 12 points and Estery 10.

TRACK RECORDS BROKEN DURING INDOOR EVENTS

Two New Marks Set Saturday Night In Big Indoor Meets

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—After a weekend which saw plenty of action and two new world's indoor records, Cornelius Warmerdam's pole vault of 14 feet 6 1/2 inches at Boston, and Barney Ewell's 5.1 seconds 50 yards at Philadelphia, the track world turned toward the second major metropolitan meet today. This is the New York Athletic club's 70th anniversary indoor meet at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The results of the weekend's three meets, the Penn. A. C. and 7th regiment affairs Friday night, and the Boston A. A. meeting Saturday, show that the athletes have hit top form. There is a good chance of a wholesale attack on the records.

Interesting Events

Of prime interest to those who like to see seconds and fractions of seconds shaved from world standards are the mile and two-mile events of the New York A. C. meeting.

Glenn Cunningham, of course, will run in the Baxter mile. He has won it four times and should win it again. His field includes Chuck Fenske and Archie San Romani.

Cunningham's two winning miles of the past week-end, 4:15.6 at Philadelphia Friday and 4:10.8 in the Hunter mile at Boston Saturday prove he is in top form for any competition that develops.

The two-mile has a field equally as good. Leading the American contingent is Don Lash, former world record holder with 8:53. Other domestic runners are Tommy Deckard, the veteran Joe McCluskey, Forest Eflaw of Oklahoma and George De George of the New York A. C.

8F Cagers Lead Jr. High League

Remaining undefeated, 8F cagers continued to pace the eighth grade division of the Junior High school basketball league by nosing out 8C, 14-11, at the High school gym Saturday.

Other eighth grade games gave 8A an 11-9 victory over 8B and St. Paul an 18-2 win over 8D.

The 7B team nosed out 7A, 11-9, to continue unbeaten in pacing the seventh grade division. In other seventh grade games, 7F took the measure of 7C, 38-14, and 7D won over St. Paul, 26-7.

Columbia Takes Lead In League

Taking over sole possession of the lead in the second round race of the Mickey McGuire basketball league for grade school teams, Columbia gained its fourth win in five games by whipping St. Paul, 19-17, at the Memorial building Saturday morning.

Relly cagers fell from a tie for first place by losing to McKinley, 19-9. Fourth Street registered its second win in five games by toppling Prospect, 19-12.

Outstanding individual feats included Lodge scoring 13 points for McKinley, Julian tallying 14 for St. Paul and Schaeffer collecting 11 for Columbia.

SCOUT SERVICE AT COLUMBIANA

Youths at Church; Will Attend Coverdish Dinner Tonight

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 13.—Boy Scouts of Troop 16, led by C. F. Copeck and Henry Vaughn, attended the Sunday morning service in the Methodist church in observance of Boy Scout week. Tonight at the same church, the troop, with their parents and a number of distinguished guests, also members of the troop committee and their wives, will hold a coverdish dinner. The guest-speaker will be Rev. J. W. Grohne, pastor of the Leetonia Lutheran church.

The Churchmen's Brotherhood will meet Wednesday evening in Grace Reformed church, when Dr. H. Bookwalter will tell about his recent trip to Yucatan and Mexico.

The entertainment committee is: F. E. Stiller, Charles Mollenkopf, Ivan Reash, William Trotter and Samuel Sheely. The Sunday evening union service was held in Grace church, with Rev. W. R. Gobrecht and members of the class in public speaking of Columbian High school presenting a program entitled "Lincoln, the Man of the People and the Man of God."

The annual meeting of the Columbian-Mahoning County Fruit Growers will be held in Columbian High school auditorium Friday. The sessions of the all-day meeting will open at 10 a. m. Three of the speakers on the program will be specialists from Ohio State university. They are: T. H. Parks, extension entomologist; F. H. Beach, horticulture; and C. C. Allison, extension plant pathologist. Discussions will include apple production and disease and insect control.

Baptists Annex Class C Honors

The Baptists formally annexed the first half championship of the Class C basketball league at the Memorial building Saturday afternoon, trouncing the Christians, 41-15, for their eighth victory against no defeat.

Leading the Baptists to the triumph were Freed with 12 points, Miller with 10 markers and Balsley with nine.

Other games saw the Presbyterians post their first win of the season by nosing out St. Paul's, 24-22; the Carroll Cubs defeated the Trinity Lutherans, 23-16, and the Friends edge the Emmanuel Lutherans, 20-19.

After Devil's Island Escape

Escaping from Devil's Island, French penal colony, in a small boat, four prisoners were stranded by a storm on deserted Pedro Cays Island, 80 miles south of Kingston, Jamaica. When they ran short of food after five weeks, Leon Fung and Pierre Lanceraux sailed to Jamaica, arranged for help. Here Honore Ferraton (left) and Marcel Bussac eat their first real meal since the escape, aboard the mercy ship Cimbooa. Jamaica authorities usually provision escaped prisoners, tow them beyond the three-mile limit and set them free.

Judge Ordered Back from Trip

Judge Edwin S. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas

Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut, who sailed from New York for the Panama Canal Zone on a month's vacation just before the serving of a subpoena to appear before a federal grand jury, has been directed by the U. S. attorney general to return immediately to testify. He has answered that he will return immediately. The grand jury investigation is reputed to concern the affairs of resigned Judge Martin Manton and, also, the receivership of the McKesson and Robbins corporation. Judge and Mrs. Thomas are pictured sailing.

HOLDENVILLE, Okla.—L. J. Morgan suffered a broken leg in a freak accident near here. The 35-year-old Atwood, Okla., service station employee, drove a tractor past a wire lying on the ground. The wire caught his trousers leg, pulling him from the machine.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif.—That the old order in America is slowly passing away again was demonstrated here when James R. Whiting was fined $25 for indulging in the old-time American pastime of chasing the fire engines. It's against the city ordinance here.

REAL ESTATE

REAL ESTATE

THIS FINE RESIDENCE MUST SELL

Here is a very good six-room house located on Cleveland Ave. in an unusually good location. All modern with hardwood floors and finish downstairs. Three nice bedrooms and bath on second floor. Reception hall and open s'airway. Good basement, cemented.

This comfortable home is situated on a large lot, surrounded by plenty of shade trees. It was built by the present owner at a cost considerably higher than our present price. It is in need of some repairs, and with a modest expenditure can be made into a fine home worth far more than the total amount invested. This is a REAL OPPORTUNITY for the wise buyer. See me for more particulars.

NEWS IN BRIEF

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—Montana cowboys have decided that with the steady decrease in the cowboy profession something must be done to perpetuate the tradition. With one Montana Cowboys association already in existence, a second one is now being organized in the Billings district. Membership will be open only to bona fide cowboys and to the sons and daughters of old time range riders.

VINTA, Okla.—A policeman stood beside a bullet-punctured automobile on a street here, waiting for its owner to return. The owner identified himself as a Disney.
Okla. city councilman. Asked about the bullet holes, he explained that he lent the car to a Disney officer "who became involved in some gunfire."

MEMPHIS, Mo.—For the first time in 60 years, Scotland county, Mo., will have a Republican county clerk. Frank A. Trunnell won by 87 votes over his Democratic rival, J. E. Poole, the incumbent, in the recent election.

JUSTICE STONE
TO BE WITNESS

Dewey, Aldrich May Also Testify In Fraud
Trial

DANVILLE, Ill.—A U. S. Supreme Court justice will be a government witness and America's ace racket-buster and a New York financier have been asked to testify in a federal trial next month which involves an alleged $125,000 mail order fraud.

The high court justice is Harlan
P. Stone. He has advised Assistant U. S. Attorney Ray Foreman that he will come here for the trial of Mrs. Maude Ault, 48-year-old grandmother, and her son, Robert Eugene Ault, 28, father of two children, on March 13.

The ace racket-buster and financier who have been asked to appear in behalf of the government are District Attorney Thomas E.
Dewey of New York and Winthrop
Aldrich, chairman of the Chase
National Bank of New York.

Mrs. Ault In Jail
Foreman said the names of the three well-known men were used by the Aults in a scheme by which they allegedly fleeced Illinois business and professional men of $125,- 000. Mrs. Ault had been held in jail here since Sept. 17 in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Her son, who allegedly posed as the scion of a wealthy family and maintained a 16-room home in River Forest together with a stable of fancy horses at Arlington Heights, was released from jail
Jan. 13 when his wife posted $3,000
bond.

The alleged scheme the two used, postal inspectors charge, was based on a mythical fortune supposed to have been left Mrs. Ault by a Max Orendorff, who they said, was a prohibition-era multi-millionaire.
Victims were told, authorities allege, that Orendorff's money was made in illicit liquor operations and that he then invested it in Texas oil lands.

"Huge Estate" Involved
The government confiscated the fortune, the two are said to have told their victims, and an investment allegedly was represented as meaning the investors would get a share of the estate valued at an estimated $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 when Mrs. Ault recovered it from the government.

Postal inspectors said they did not learn of the alleged scheme for several years as each "investor." It was presumed, was told to stay away from government investigators because the government would use every means to block efforts to recover it.

The Aults at various times allegedly intimidated that Justice Stone, Dewey and Aldrich were helping them in the legal battle to recover the fortune. Thrust into the case thus, the three prominent easterners have been asked to appear as witnesses.

Among persons said to have been victims of the Aults were residents of Chicago, Monticello, Champaign, Urbana and Danville. One man, Newton P. Grey, Chicago, administrator of a several million dollar estate, is said to have lost $76,000 in the scheme.

When arrested Mrs. Ault was said to be living frugally on about $70 a month, although the son lived in a 10-room house.

FILLERS

CLEVELAND—Although the seventh World's Poultry Congress and Exhibition will not open here until summer, one delegate already has started his journey to Cleveland, according to Sidney A. Edwards, managing director of the exposition. The delegate is C. R. Turbet, of the Fiji Islands, who is making the trip here by way of London.

CARDINALS PLAN
THEIR CONCLAVE

Prepare to Name New into the second and thence into the third.

Amid the elaborate manifestations of sorrow, the College of Cardinals met. Achille Cardinal Lienart from France and Michael Cardinal
Von Faulhaber from Germany
Sunday. Most of the Italian cardinals were here, and others, including the American prelate, were enroute.

Upon the arrival of the Americans depended the start of the election conclave which Vatican prelates said could be not earlier than Feb. 26 or later than March 1.

Long Conclave Possible

Speculation increased on the choice of a successor and some diplomats thought there existed the possibility of a long conclave. Italians have been most prominently mentioned but should a deadlock develop among them, church informants said a compromise might result—election of one of the older cardinals more isolated than his younger colleagues from present world events.

This was done in 1878 with the election of Pope Leo XIII.

Should a deadlock lead to a similar choice this time, it was possible the cardinals might choose the dean of their college, 87-year-old Cennaro Cardinal Pignatelli Di Belmonte who was considered for the papacy after the death of Pius X and Benedict XV.
